PRICE THREE CENTS

TWO DROP OUT IN TOWNSHIP FIGHT

For Hess and Harmony Stretch Declares; Skelton Is Silent

MEANS IT'S HESS SURE

Frank V. Fayant, an old Penrose man of Philadelphia who moved to Ardmore three years ago announced this morning that he was out of the Treasurership race.

With the exception of the commission fights in the various parts of Lower Merion, harmony complete and absolute reigns in township politics. This became apparent Tuesday, the last day for the filing of nominating petitions at Norristown by aspirants for political office.

The storm over the $20,000 township treasurer plum, threatened early in the month when candidates first announced their intentions, fizzled and expired completely Tuesday. James A. Stretch, commissioner from the General Wayne district, and Treasurer Joseph J. Skelton, Jr., of Bala, both of whom announced their intentions of running for the job, failed to file petitions and are evidently out of the fight. Their failure to file removed the most threatening obstacle to the treasurership aspirations of Commissioner Peter C. Hess, of Bala, and will probably insure his election to the office.

Though Treasurer Skelton had announced that he would not "let them take it away without a fight" and Commissioner Stretch had repeatedly refused to confirm rumors that he would eliminate himself from the race, the withdrawal of neither came as a surprise to close followers of hectic township politics. Pressure was brought to bear on them and last week reports were current that both would drop from the fight. Skelton's intentions, it was admitted, were more or less of a mystery, but Stretch, it was known, held a conference last Wednesday with lieutenants and workers in which he discussed the advisability of withdrawing. He refused, however, to make a definite announcement at that time.

Stretch when interviewed yesterday about his withdrawal announced that he was turning in for Pete Hess. Skelton, however, declared he had no statement to make of any kind.

"I am not backing anyone and I have nothing else to say," declared the treasurer when asked if his failure to file meant that he was turning in for Hess as successor to himself for the position which pays a larger income than the Governor of Pennsylvania gets.

"I would like to see harmony in the party," said Commissioner Stretch when asked why he dropped from the race. "I don't want to see a mix-up like we had last time. I'll be with Pete Hess."

In the last township treasurer primaries held in 1921 there were four entries, William G. Frankenhof, of South Ardmore, this year one of the candidates for the commissionership from that district; Skelton, Stretch and Harry H. Francis, of South Ardmore, a candidate again this year. Frankenhof won, but Skelton and Stretch followed close on his heels.

Such bitter factional feeling was caused, however, that when Skelton refused to accept the decision of the party in the primaries and formed a

INSPECT AUTO LIGHTS

State Inspectors Stopping Motorists City Bound.

A check-up on gleaming and otherwise illegal automobile headlights is being conducted in Philadelphia vicinity by W. W. Matthews, chief inspector of the Automobile Division, Department of Highways.

Headlight-testing screens now stand on the main highways into Philadelphia and motorists with improper lights are halted and informed how they are at fault. Cards are issued which state what adjustments are necessary, and a record of each case is kept.

Particular attention is paid to cars with one light and drivers are urged to carry extra bulbs.

REPRESENT AUXILIARIES

Miss Regina Donaghy, of Ardmore, was the representative of the Bucks-Montgomery Bi-County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Legion convention held in Erie, Pa., this week.

Other Main Line representatives were Mrs. Albert L. Reinhold, of Ardmore, who represented the Bullock-Sanderson Auxiliary, and Mrs. John Howenstein, who was a delegate from the Narberth Legion Auxiliary.

COUNTY WOMEN TO PROBE TAX FEES

Controller Irvin Enlisted in Movement by Voters' League Leaders.

STIRRED BY L. M. FIGURE

Spurred to even greater activity by the recently published revelations of fat fees for tax collectors in Montgomery county, a committee of women voters conferred last week with William C. Irvin, the county controller, to enlist his official assistance in getting facts and figures as to the costs of collecting county and State taxes.

This committee was headed by Mrs. Herman L. Schwartz, of Wynnewood, honorary chairman of the Montgomery County League of Women Voters and a member of the league's State board, and Mrs. C. P. Fowler, chairman of the Narberth League of Women Voters.

These leaders, together with Mrs. E. W. Delaplaine, of Merion, are directing the league's tax survey for the county as a whole. Then there are others such as Mrs. William M. Gehmann, Jr., of Cynwyd, who are in charge of the survey for boroughs and townships.

As a result of the conference with the County Controller, Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Fowler expect to get soon official reports on the total county assessment, total county tax duplicate, the total cost of assessment, the number of assessors and their pay, the total cost of collecting all county taxes, as well as the cost of gathering in delinquent taxes.

These statistics will not only throw a flood of light on the cost of assessing and collecting taxes, but also on the mounting cost of county government, all of which will be of great help to voters in electing local and county officials.

Montgomery county women voters were stirred by the published figures showing that the Lower Merion tax collector rakes in about $20,000 a year in fees.

The highest paid county official receives only $5000 a year and the tax collector is a local and not a county official.

Next month Bryn Mawr College will also start making a survey of the Montgomery county tax situation.

This work will be in charge of Dr. Marion Parris Smith, professor of economics.

The college is one of those competing for the $500 prize offered by Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, for the best survey by a college.

The Montgomery County League of Women Voters is competing for the $200 prize offered by the State chairman for the best county survey by a league.

JAIL DORMITORY

Being Built by Prisoners, Nearing Completion.

At a meeting of the inspectors of the Montgomery county prison Thursday night, President Alfred H. Wright reported excellent progress is being made on the new dormitory being erected over the workshop in the rear of the prison.

Mr. Wright stated the work was being done under the supervision of Major Romanus Fellman, who is a practical bricklayer, with the assistance of the prisoners. The only cost to the county is for materials.

When completed the new addition will be used to house prisoners awaiting trial on trivial charges. This will relieve congestion in the other sections of the building.

INSTALL FLAG RECEPTACLES

The merchants along Haverford avenue and nearby streets are making an organized effort to have a uniform display of flags on national holidays in future.

During the past fortnight many of the storekeepers have had holes drilled near the curb line to hold wooden poles about eight feet high on which flags can be flown.

The work is being done by the individual merchants, but the response to the efforts for uniformity has been very good. Similar flag rows are maintained at Ardmore, Bryn Mawr and other nearby towns.

Adams, Star Bates Athlete, Is New Lower Merion High Coach

Lower Merion High School has secured a football coach to take the place made vacant by the resignation of Frank Frostburg. He is Albert C. Adams, who has been a coach at West Chester High School for the past three years. He was signed at a salary understood to be $2500 a year.

Coach Adams comes to Lower Merion with a brilliant record. He is a graduate of Bates College and while there was on both the football and the basketball teams for four years. In his last year at Bates he was elected captain of both teams. After receiving his diploma at Bates, Mr. Adams went to the Y. M. C. A. Physical Culture College at Springfield, Mass. Graduating from there he went to West Chester. His summers for the past few years he has spent as a physical director at a private camp in Maine.

Mr. Adams will take charge of the physical training department at the high school but his main job will be to coach the Lower Merion eleven. Coach Frostburg built up an enviable reputation for the Maroon and White gridiron teams during the last three years of his stay and Coach Adams is expected by close followers of the Ardmore school to carry on the work with high success.

Frank Forstburg announced a month ago that he would leave in order to become a member of the coaching staff of Delaware University. When rumors first were circulated that he contemplated leaving, Mr. Forstburg for a week refused to confirm or deny them.

During this time according to Secretary William J. Byrnes, of the School Board, all efforts were made to have him remain at Lower Merion. His salary was raised by the School Board and he was offered $2500 a year if he would remain. Forstburg declined, however, and announced he was leaving for Delaware.

MILK CONTROL OFFICER BUSY CHECKING DAIRIES

Warnings Sent to 20 in Lower Merion and 19 in Narberth.

George W. Grim, milk control officer for the district comprising the townships of Lower Merion, Haverford and Springfield, and the boroughs of Narberth, Aldan and Lansdowne, has been busy during the month of July. His report for the month shows he is keeping close tabs on the sources of milk supply and the manner of distribution.

In conjunction with the Philadelphia Milk Commission he gave notice to a large dairy producing certified milk that its certification had been withdrawn owing to six violations of the standards for the production of certified milk.

The milk control officer found some dairies were not exercising sufficient care to exclude flies. Dealers were urged to use fly traps and some producers were directed to eliminate breeding places for flies.

One producer is complying with an order to eliminate the cause of visible dirt, which had been reported from time to time. This same producer has installed a new steam boiler to assure the better sterilization of milk bottles and containers.

One producer of inspected raw milk was notified that unless he properly protects the milk bottles from contamination his license to sell inspected raw milk would be withdrawn. He promised to do so.

Some of the large dairies in Philadelphia with the aid of the manufacturer of a pasteurizer are endeavoring to construct a new value that will eliminate the pockets in which a small quantity of milk—yet large enough to contaminate if not pasteurized—may lie.

The producers and dealers in ship added to the district, are manifesting a disposition to do all they can to comply with the milk control officer's instructions and thereby not only comply with the various milk ordinances but also succeed in producing milk as pure as in the other portions of milk control district No. 1.

Mr. Markle, of Ardmore, has informed the Milk Control Officer that the manufacturer of a bottle-washing apparatus, he intends to purchase, has assured him that the bottles will be sterilized in accordance with the recent ordinance on sterilizing milk bottles adopted by the Lower Merion Board of Health.

HURT IN ACCIDENT

James Phillips Witherow, of Rockland avenue and Grove place, was slightly injured last Saturday when a car which he was driving collided with one driven by Charles Harmed, of Philadelphia.

The accident occurred at Twenty-fifth and Diamond streets. His injuries were treated at the Northwest General Hospital.

BAG STOLEN FROM AUTO

Sneak thieves stole a traveling bag containing jewelry, clothing and cash totalling $200 from the automobile of Edgar G. Henderson, of Narberth, while the car was parked at Fifteenth and Spruce streets, Philadelphia, Monday. Pedestrians chased a negro seen carrying a bag, but he eluded them.

STITES' ASSOCIATE WILL BE BURGESS

Henry A. Frye Is the Only One to File Petition for That Office.

COUNCILMEN DROP OUT

With only one petition filed for the office of Burgess, Narberth will probably have as its leader one of the youngest men in similar office in this section.

The candidate on the Republican ticket is Henry A. Frye, a 30-year-old lawyer. There is no candidate on the Democratic ticket, and it is believed that the voters of that party will support Frye.

The aspirant for the job of chief burgess is associated with State Senator Fletcher W. Stites in the latter's law practice in Philadelphia. Senator Stites, himself a former burgess of the borough, is at the present time its solicitor, and has delegated many of the duties of that office to Mr. Frye. As a result the candidate is familiar with the affairs of local Government.

He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Stanford University, Calif., before the war, and entered the service. Following the war he entered Harvard Law School and received there the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Later he was admitted to the bar in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Frye has been a resident of Narberth since 1919 and has joined in many local activities. He is a member of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, a past member of the Tennis Association and is president of the Fathers' Association of the Boy Scouts.

Four of the seven members of Council in the borough reach the end of their terms this year. Only one of them has filed a petition to return to office. That one man is Daniel Leitch, treasurer of the Merion Title and Trust Company, President W. R. D. Hall, Walton M. Wentz and Hugh W. Brown all declined to run again.

Borough political solons attribute this lack of desire to return to office to the constantly increasing duties devolving upon councilmen, and to the fact that during the past few years there has been a constant problem of listening to "enraged citizenry," who have marched upon the meeting in sectional groups often some individual has accused the governing body of geographical favoritism and an over-conservative financial policy.

Few petitions were presented other than those discussed in a previous article in "Our Town." In addition to Mrs. Van Auker and Messrs. Harris and Keim, who will try to run for the two vacancies on the school board under both party banners, Walter Steckbeck has filed a petition on the Republican side.

Dr. Steckbeck is assistant Professor of Botany at the University of

BACK FROM NORTH

Philip A. Livingston, of Chestnut avenue, returned Sunday from a two-week's canoe trip through the hinterlands of Quebec. When interviewed by a representative of "Our Town" he stated:

"Yes, we had a good trip. If you can speak French patois and understand the word for whisky in seven languages the natives think you belong there."

"The only thrilling experience was when our canoe shot the dangerous Rapids des Cedres on the upper Lievre River. Few have made the trip successfully and many canoes have been smashed."

"In our case we made the first nine feet with marked success. For the remainder of the quarter-mile of boiling water the canoe went it alone keel up while the former occupants swam ashore and laid plans for drying out."

"The fish are so thick in the wilderness lakes that it makes paddling difficult."

RESCUE NARBERTH WOMAN

Mrs. Robert E. Greene, of Narberth, and Mrs. J. H. White, of Riverside, Conn., were rescued by Stone Harbor life guards Wednesday when a strong undertow carried them beyond their depth. Both were given first aid on the beach.

BERWYN GETS REVENGE ON ARDMORE FOR DEFEAT

Turns on Cullinan's Nine and Blasts it, 9-5.

Berwyn dealt a damaging blow to Manager Joe Cullinan's second-half Main Line League pennant hopes by knocking off his Ardmore team at Berwyn Saturday, 9 to 5. Ardmore outthit the winners, 13 to 6, but Berwyn bunched theirs in the third inning for six runs.

Griffith started on the peak for Ardmore, but after issuing four bases on balls in the third inning was relieved by Murray. Mayo, the first Berwyn batsman to face Murray, clouted a home run with the bases loaded.

Ardmore flared up in the eighth inning with three runs, but Bobby Paist put on extra steam and quieted the rally. Featured were the all-around play of Mayo, the fielding of Doyle and Kelly, and the hitting of Kane and Hemscher.

Narberth had a Roman holiday at the expense of Paoli Saturday at Narberth, winning the Main Line League game, 21 to 7. It was Narberth's fifth straight victory in the second half, and they now lead the league, two games ahead of Berwyn and Ardmore tied for second place in the race.

Jimmy McGill started for Paoli, but Narberth's 10 runs in the third inning convinced Jimmy it wasn't his day. Osborne was the next victim and after considerable punishment he retired in favor of Jarman. Fifteen hits rang from the bats of the Narberth leaders and Paoli errors of omission and commission piled up the score.

Narberth and Autocar battled to a tie at the Ardmore field Thursday, 1 to 1. Townsend was on the mound for Bill Crowell and Griffin, another southpaw, pitched a fine game, but Townsend had the edge by a big margin.

Narberth collected 10 hits off Griffin while Autocar was held to four.

Narberth had 11 men die on bases; the motor nine had eight. Townsend had 10 strikeouts to his credit while Griffin had six. Townsend had 10 strikeouts to his credit while Griffin had six.

PROTESTS LITTER

To the Editor of "Our Town":

I note that some, but few, of our Narberth merchants are still following the antiquated method of advertising, that of peddling hand bills. The writer, for one, objects to the practice as the hand bills are usually distributed by incompetent help, whose distribution methods are that of walking along the sidewalk and throwing the hand bills at the doors, with the result that they land on the lawn and are blown all over the premises for the owner to collect.

Inasmuch as the Community of Narberth publishes a weekly newspaper, would it not be advisable for such firms, now peddling bills, to get away from this obsolete method of advertising and to advertise in "Our Town," thereby keeping the condition of Narberth in a more orderly state.

The firms I refer to, I am advised, have no interest in Narberth, other than that of selling their wares, and this is possibly the reason why they are not interested in keeping the town in an orderly condition.

JAS. W. DARVILLE.

We agree with you absolutely, Mr. Darville. The nuisance referred to has always been a mystery to us—that is, the fact that the borough authorities permit it has been the mystery.

In our neighboring towns this littering of the yards and streets with hand bills is not permitted. Bala-Cynwyd, Merion and Wynnewood streets are free of the junk, but in Narberth the circulars and "newspapers" are permitted to float about without check.

Certainly somewhere between the street commissioner and the police there should be an enforcement of State law and local ordinance to abate the nuisance. If local laws are not comprehensive enough, Council would have little difficulty in putting some teeth into no-trash rules. Surely no measure would be more popular with householders.

The strange fact is, that a company can use a quarter page or more in "Our Town," which reaches practically every home, at less cost than to fill waste receptacles with circulars. And such methods of publicity build up good will, not resentment.

Narberth is not a community of slovenly day laborers, but who can convince a chain store proprietor of that fact?

THE EDITOR.

New Bryn Mawr Theatre.

Messrs. Harry Fried and Philip Harrison have completed preliminary plans for the erection at 820 826 Lancaster avenue, Bryn Mawr, of a magnificent new theatre, with a seating capacity of 1000, and to cost, according to Mr. Fried, approximately $250,000. The plans call for a theatre with up-to-the-minute furnishings. It will have an arcade in which there will be eight stores.

It is expected to be ready for occupancy in about six months and will be managed by Mr. Fried in conjunction with his Wayne and Berwyn theatres.

VACATIONS IN THE GARDEN

Almost every day in spring, summer and autumn is a good day to garden. But who can give every day, or a part of every day, to the garden?

Saturday afternoons, or perhaps a few minutes weeding on Sunday, is our usual opportunity to tackle the job in proper fashion. With some long summer evening hours there is little other time for busy folks except for the holidays.

Labor day is the best day on the calendar for moving and planting peonies. Irises that were not moved on July Fourth may yet be planted. Lilies, madonnas especially, are best planted and are available on Labor day. This is also the day to go over the dahlias and take off all the side buds. Fine bone meal around the dahlias will help a lot; do not dig too deeply as the roots are near the surface. A circular trench about 12 inches in diameter around the main stem will send the water where it is most needed or will carry liquid manure.

Building that rock garden would be a fine way to improve the gardener's time on Labor day. Try to get a sunny location, if at all possible, and you will have no trouble in getting bloom from the three spring glories in the rock garden, Arabis Alpine, white, Alyssum Saxatile, yellow and the Aubrietias in lavender, purple or crimson. We can also succeed with the dwarf irises, pumila and cristata as well as the different varieties of Phlox Subulata, Alpine asters, Alpine poppies, the dwarf pinks such as Dianthus Deltoides and Neglectus and dozens of other easy subjects such as Cerastium Tomentosum, Plumbago Larpendae, Myosotis, various Sedums and Armerias.

Get the clay out of the soil and mix up a good proportion of humus with some good, light garden loam and some sand, adding some fine broken stone, if available. The plants should get rooted if planted in early September and will be on the job next spring. A light covering of leaves, held down with evergreen branches will afford sufficient protection from the tricky changes of later winter and early spring.

Practically all of the perennials can be planted in September so that they get rooted before frost. If planted later the young plants are apt to be heaved out of the ground by the action of the frost. Mulching with leaves helps to prevent this.

Get your Crocus, Narcissi and Tulip bulbs as early as possible for October planting and if you are crowded for time we can still plant them as late as our last garden holiday, Thanksgiving day, which day, by the by, is the day of days for planting Hybrid tea, Hybrid Perpetual or Climbing Roses.

MAIN LINE MERCHANTS PROTEST HIGHWAY DETOUR

Ardmore and Bryn Mawr Merchants Will File Protests.

Business men of Ardmore and Bryn Mawr will protest to the State Highway Department in the near future that the department's action in detouring through motor traffic from the Lincoln Highway in the two Main Line towns is taking from 15 to 30 per cent. of their business away from them daily.

It was said by A. L. Reinhold, secretary of the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce, that a meeting of representative business men of both towns would probably be held early next week to take up the matter. The diversion of the traffic east of Stafford is caused by the widening of the Lincoln Highway from City Line to that point.

At the present time actual work is being done only in the vicinity of Wayne and St. Davids, yet all east-bound traffic for Philadelphia and all west-bound traffic for points beyond Stafford is being detoured by way of Haverford road, Glenbrook avenue and the Conestoga road, far to the south of all business districts.

This is your paper, and your advice is appreciated.

STRETCH AND SKELTON DROP OUT OF FIGHT

party of his own to fight Frankfield in the November election, he won.

This year strong pressure was brought by political chieftains in the township to line the various factions up behind Hess in order that a wide-open split might be avoided. That their efforts were successful is shown by the withdrawal of both Skelton and Stretch, two of the most formidable factors in the 1921 scrap.

All that remains now to be done for the ambitions of Commissioner Hess is the official endorsement of him by the stalwarts of the Republican organization, and this will be done without a hitch at the next meeting of the Republican Association of Lower Merion and Narberth, which is scheduled to be held at the General Wayne Inn, near Narberth, next Monday. Mr. Hess appeared before the association at a meeting held last week, but endorsement was withheld at that time until the petitions had been filed and candidates given a chance to withdraw. The dead line for withdrawals is today at 4 P. M.

In addition to Mr. Hess, three others filed petitions for nomination as Republican candidate for township treasurer. One of these, however, is contemplating withdrawing, and the two others are expected to give the Bala commissioner, with his solid organization backing, little trouble.

The other Republicans to file treasurership petitions were Isaac Scott Boyd, Harry H. Francis and Frank V. Fayant, all of Ardmore.

Mr. Boyd, who declared he had 600 friends who would vote for him the minute he entered the race, is believed by political observers to be a candidate of the Ku Klux Klan. He will without doubt stick to the finish.

Harry Francis, of South Ardmore, though not strictly an independent, is another free lance. He has stated that he will remain in the race and no hopes are held for his withdrawal.

The entry of Frank V. Fayant, the fourth Republican, came as a complete surprise to all of the practical politicians. No boom appeared for him early in the month and few knew that he was in the race until the petitions were filed.

Mr. Fayant, though well known in Ardmore, where he resides at 41 East Lancaster avenue, is not prominently identified with politics in the township at large. He formerly conducted the Ardmore Motors Company, which was purchased a short time ago by H. R. Jacobs.

Mr. Fayant is contemplating withdrawing from the race.

"The petition for my candidacy was being circulated by friends," he said. "I am much interested in the township treasurership but it doesn't seem possible to win without organized backing and so far as I understand I have little of that. Besides there are already quite a few candidates in the field. I may withdraw, but I am prepared to make no announcement now."

The Democratic nomination for treasurer is uncontested. Albert Lee Reinhold, former Ardmore postmaster and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was the only Democrat to file a petition for the office. His entrance into the field was made more to keep the Democratic party in Lower Merion organized than with hopes of giving the Republicans serious fight in the fall election. The chances of the "unterrifieds" in Lower Merion, which is overwhelmingly Republican, is admittedly small.

In the county, harmony also seems to prevail for the more important offices. Isaiah T. Haldeeman, of Lower Salford, is the only Republican candidate for prothonotary, and J. Ira Fischer, of Willow Grove, is the only Republican aspirant for jury commissioner. Both hold these respective offices at present.

For director of the poor a host of candidates appear, but here as in the other vacancies, there is not one candidate from Lower Merion.

President Judge John Faber Miller is unopposed for re-election to the bench, being assured of both the Republican and Democratic nominations.

For the first time in many years, no Socialist aspires to county office. No Prohibition petitions were filed. This, however, excited no interest in political circles, as this party has polled few votes since the Volsteadian era began.

BRIGHAM YOUNG

Werner's Biography of Mormon Leader Now Available at Library.

All patrons of the Community Library who have read Werner's biography of Barnum, the circus man, will be interested to know that the library now has available an equally interesting biographical work by the same author. Mr. Werner has this time turned his attention and talents to Brigham Young, the man who led the Mormon pilgrimage from Illinois to Utah and who laid down in that desert valley the basic principles upon which the present great prosperity of the Mormon Church rests.

Many people, especially those whose memories run back to the closing decades of the last century, will probably recall the name of "Brigham Young" as suggesting a polygamous man who was frequently preached against and written against here in the East. The polygamy charges were true enough, as Werner makes clear. He says that Brigham Young had 26 wives and 57 children and that some of the other Mormon elders had several more wives and much more numerous offspring.

However, there is very much in the career of Brigham Young which merits the attention of a careful and impartial writer like Werner, and it will be seen by those who read this book that Brigham Young's peculiar religious belief did not prevent him from showing many unusual characteristics of remarkable leadership and of real statesmanship.

The Mormon were bitterly persecuted in Missouri and later in Illinois where their prophet and founder was assassinated. It was Brigham Young who led this stricken and disorganized band of Mormons from Illinois into the western wilds and who selected the Salt Lake Valley as the place where they could find prosperity and peace. The success of the Mormon settlement in Utah is well known and impresses everyone who visits that State to this day. If it had not been for Brigham Young that success undoubtedly could not have been achieved.

Werner's biography contains many interesting quotations from the sermons which Brigham Young preached to his people. These sermons covered every possible subject, including instructions on the best methods by which a polygamous family could be made to live in peace and harmony. The sermons reveal the shrewd and capable character of the man, and the reader of them is inclined to agree with Werner that Brigham Young had more faith in his own abilities than he did in the supposed revelations from God.
